March is the month for a shift in season towards more daylight and Clay Space is going to have a favorite clay artist guest teach two weeks of Katie's Porcelain class...thus we have more magic! You might recognize the name Allan Kluber. He was already working with Porcelain when Katie just completed high school. The current March edition of Ceramics Monthly has an article which will best explain his knowledge and enjoyment for ceramics. This class will continue to be about hand building with Porcelain and the colored Porcelain we have always shared. Katie and Allan will teach any level and want to continue with the exploration and discovery of methods that show off the clay while playing with colors and hand building forms. For any who enjoy shadow and light, this translucent, white and very fine clay is a wonderful material. Students continue to master many colored clay techniques they will share enthusiastically.
